Many image editing programs do a similar job. If you're new to Photoshop, check out the online tutorials and forums; there's likely to be a thread on the subject, particularly for beginners. \_Eye of The Image\_ (``www.eyeoftheimage.com``) is a good example. When it comes to choosing which version of Photoshop to buy, the big difference between the CS and CS6 versions is the number of layers, which is an important feature for beginners. The newer version is more complex, but the new tools in the interface make it easier to learn for beginners. The two versions of Photoshop are shown in Figure 13-1. Figure 13-1: Photoshop CS6 and Photoshop CS6 Extended have much more capability than the older version. Although the new version has many more features, the interface is not intuitive; to get to the functions you need, you have to dig into the menus. Therefore, be sure to check out your online tutorials before buying.

American Ninja Warrior Smackdown — Inaction Conundrum Sibling rivalry continues here at team CQ in a debate about a recent edit of “American Ninja Warrior” in which the brothers’ team was completely eliminated from the show and they finished in third place. (Twice. Honestly. Between that and the “good” edit this last weekend, NBC, you’re on notice.) Team CQ has earned the right to dump this non-debate, and is hereby declaring the good edit the winner and the bad edit the loser. You've been warned. "Both edits at the end were underwhelming. In the first, the brothers (looked) like a prop and were somewhat of a background nuisance, and in the second, they just looked like trash. I can't believe that the ninja obstacle was that hard, because I knew it was going to be impossible to run up it. Sure enough, the brothers had to walk up the stairs.” Debate 1 - third to last episode, contestants Chris and Kevin finished fourth in the competition. We got to see this: And then the brothers go up a different flight of stairs, and the camera follows them until we see this: Debate 2 - second to last episode, the brothers completed their run with their obstacle and then did a fairly shaky mid-race, though not nearly as shaky as this: This is a pretty close fight. There are some pretty significant differences in the course between these 2 edits. The second edit was clearly edited to mimic the third edit, and the edit from mid-race to the end made it too smooth. However, the second edit is definitely more exciting in my opinion. What do you think? Which edit was better? Sound off in the comments! “First of all, it’s not all that easy to run up those stairs in the first edit. It seems like it was, but they had to walk up them. It’s kinda an exaggeration of that, which I don't think is very professional. I also don't get why those guys didn't do the 'Willy Wonka' at all. They should've gone through the tunnel and the pipes. It adds realism to the show. It shows how athletes train. "I like how in the first edit they came out with

A new survey released Tuesday by the National

Center for Transgender Equality and the National Gay and Lesbian Task Force sheds light on issues faced by transgender people and those who love them. Of the 2,299 people who responded to the transgender survey, the two groups found that 47 percent of transgender respondents had attempted suicide. Other findings include: - 38 percent of respondents had been rejected by a family member or friend due to their gender identity. - 65 percent said they had avoided work or school due to their gender identity or expression. - 55 percent of respondents had a parent, guardian, caretaker or teacher who made them feel unsafe, harassed or discriminated against due to their gender identity. - 58 percent of respondents had been physically or sexually assaulted due to their gender identity. - 68 percent of respondents said that the stigma against transgender people in the media affects them daily. "These figures are staggering," Andre J. Lykos, executive director of the National Center for Transgender Equality, said in a statement. "They underscore how important it is that the media and political leaders better reflect the needs and priorities of transgender people by representing them more accurately in both words and images." "The Obama Administration is doing a lot to improve our lives," said

---

Mara Keisling, director of the National Center for Transgender Equality, in a statement. "With this important survey, the Administration's Center for American Progress is helping show that progress is possible and giving American families an opportunity to build on the life-changing policies they've begun." "We are deeply grateful for the work of our partners at the American Progress to make the lives of all Americans better," Keisling
